CEI Presents at Annual International Conference on Soils, Sediments, Water & Energy

On October 16-19, 2017, the Association for Environmental Health & Sciences Foundation, Inc. (AEHS Foundation) held its 33rd Annual International Conference on Soils, Sediment, Water and Energy at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst. A conference focused on the assessment, remediation, regulation and the energy environmental interface, this event attracts over 600 attendees with a wide variety of participants from various federal and state agencies, military, industry, engineering, and academia.

CEI Principal Engineer and Project Manager, Matthew Lundsted, P.E., CFM presented at the Regulatory Programs and Policies Platform Session along with the U.S. EPA. A project funded by EPA Region 1, CEI's session provided information on the recently completed design and construction of stormwater BMP retrofits on Cape Cod for the control of nitrogen.

For more information on this presentation and project please contact Matthew Lundsted, P.E., CFM at 800.725.2550 x305 or at mlundsted@ceiengineers.com.
